The Government of Sindh has already taken the lead in reforming the age-old, colonial laws that governed the prison system of Pakistan under the Prisons Act 1894 by passing the Sindh Prisons and Corrections Services Act in June, 2019. Aligned with our broader tenets of dignity and humanitarian equity, the Sindh Prisons and Corrections Services Act 2019 advocates for the treatment of all prisoners with respect and value without discrimination, and for the reform of the prison system into a rehabilitative and educational service.

With the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic in March 2020, we here at the Law, Anti-Corruption, and Establishment department felt the need for implementation of these prison reforms more acutely than ever. Plagued by problems of over-crowding, the prisons were hardly conducive to a rehabilitative environment amid a global pandemic. To overcome this, the Government of Sindh expedited the development of the new Sindh Prisons and Corrections Services Rules (framed under the Sindh Prisons & Correction Service Act 2019). These Rules have been developed in close collaboration with various departments including the Sindh Prison Department and the Committee for the Welfare of Prisoners (CWP), operating under the Home Department, Government of Sindh.

I would like to extend my deep appreciation to Mr. Kazi Nazeer Ahmed, Inspector General Sindh Prisons and Corrections Service, Syed Munawwar Ali Shah from the Sindh Prisons & Corrections Service, Mr. Shahid Shafiq, Justice Nasir Aslam Zahid and Barrister Haya Emaan Zahid, whose joint efforts as key members of the review committee have been paramount in crafting the new Sindh Prison Rules in their current form.

I believe this is an important step in ensuring, not only reforms within the prison system, but also increased access to prison facilities amongst those who are most directly affected, i.e., the prison staff and the prisoners.

Mr. Kazi Nazeer Ahmed

Until recently our prison system was governed by two century-old laws which, instead of being reformatory and rehabilitative, were punitive and vengeful in nature. The necessary corollary was that prisons came to be called nurseries/universities of crime, a perfect breeding ground for criminals. Instead of converting to a better and useful citizen of the society, a first-time prison inmate usually turned into a habitual and career criminal.

The democratic government decided to take matters into its own hands and bring about a paradigm shift in the laws and subsequent rules governing prisons by forming a committee consisting of myself, Syed Munawwar Ali Shah from the Sindh Prisons & Corrections Services (SPCS), Mr. Shahid Shafiq (District Judge), and Ms. Haya Emaan Zahid (Barrister). The committee worked day and night to review prison laws of various developed countries to draw recommendations to be put forward for the scrutiny of the Honourable Parliamentary Committee. This august committee further contributed to the Herculean task by debating upon each section, rule, sentence, and word put forth. Various new concepts were added, world's best practices were incorporated, a high-powered Prison Policy Board was put in place, and a high-level executive body, the Prison Management Board, was envisioned.

The essence of all this effort was to ensure that the new law is dynamic and capable of evolving with the passage of time.

May this new law help bring about positive change in the attitudes and perceptions of all stakeholders and may we all serve humanity and our homeland sincerely and with utmost professionalism! Our coming generations are going to benefit from this effort and goodwill of all, Inshaa Allah!

The Prison Rules, originally framed under Section 59 of the previously enabling statute of the Prisons Act, 1894, were enforced in Sindh for approximately forty years. A lack of revision in the legislative scheme had rendered it out of tune with the needs of the 21st century correctional policy and the framework created hindrances for the effective governance and administration of prisons aligned with the 21st century correctional philosophy.

The Sindh Prisons and Corrections Service Rules 2019 (framed under the Sindh Prisons & Correction Service Act 2019) create an up-to-date landscape for the effective governance of prisons and is a first attempt across Pakistan to break away from the shackles of colonial penal policies. The rules have been formulated within a human rights framework, ensuring the dignity and respect of all prisoners irrespective of gender, religion, cast or creed. I congratulate the Government of Sindh on this landmark legislation that will uplift the plight of prisoners and create transparency and accountability behind bars. The rules are a collaborative effort between members of the Sindh Prisons Corrections Service (SPCs), the Sindh Judicial Academy, and the Committee for the Welfare of Prisoners (CWP), a committee operating under the Home Department, Government of Sindh.

I must put on record appreciation for Barrister Murtaza Wahab, Advisor Chief Minister of Sindh on Law, Environment, Climate Change & Coastal Development Department and Information for championing and leading the legislative process in this regard. I am grateful to the review committee comprising of Mr. Kazi Nazeer Ahmed, Inspector General Sindh Prisons & Correction Service, Syed Munawwar Ali Shah from the Sindh Prisons and Corrections Service, Mr. Shahid Shafiq (District Judge), Barrister Haya Emaan Zahid, Secretary Committee for the Welfare of Prisoners (CWP), Ms. Jawziya F. Zaman (CWP) and Advocate Hira Saleem (CWP) for their hard work in reviewing literature on prison law reform from around the world, drawing best practices, and putting forth recommendations to be incorporated in the New Sindh Prison Rules.

I believe this effort is a crucial step towards establishing the principle of “ignorantia legis non excusat” (ignorance of the law is no excuse) within our social setting where general awareness of law remains low. Undoubtedly, the necessity of having province-specific laws readily available is vital for courts, lawyers, government departments and the public at large for proper awareness and implementation of the laws. To quote Professor Lon Fuller, Chair of Jurisprudence at Harvard Law School:

“... people need to know the categories of their conduct which are to be governed by rules of law and the manner in which that governance is to be achieved. Proper publication of the rules of law provides such information and therefore is essential for operation of law as a system...”

When a prisoner undergoing sentence in any of the prisons in the Sindh, for a conviction in Pakistan, is surrendered to a foreign jurisdiction, his sentence shall, be deemed to be suspended until the date of his surrender when it shall revive and have effect for the remaining unexpired portion of his sentence. The sentence of a prisoner undergoing imprisonment in default of furnishing security is not to be deemed to be suspended on his surrender to a foreign jurisdiction.

421. Date of release when a period does not count towards sentence.

When a period has been excluded from a sentence under the preceding rules, the mode to be adopted in calculating the date of release is, take the full term of sentence as commencing from the date of re-admission and deduct from it the number of days already passed in prison, the date so arrived at, will be the date on which the sentence expires.

422. Period spent on parole to count towards sentence.

The period spent out of a prison by a convict on parole shall count towards his sentence unless specifically ordered otherwise in any particular case.

423. Period spent in hospital to count towards sentence.

The period spent by a prisoner in an outside hospital shall count towards his sentence.

424. Date of release when two or more sentences run consecutively.

When a prisoner is sentenced to two or more terms of imprisonments to be served consecutively, the date of release shall be calculated as if the sum of the terms was awarded in one sentence.

Example.- A prisoner, sentenced on the 21st June, 2019 to one year's imprisonment, is, for another offence, subsequently sentenced to a further term of one year, the period will commence from the expiration of the first sentence. He will be released on the 20th June, 2020, not on the 19th June, 2021.

425. Operation of a second sentence when the first sentence is set aside.

(1) When a prisoner has been committed to prison at one trial under two separate warrants, the sentence in the one will take effect after the expiry of the sentence in the other, the date of such second sentence shall, in the event of the first sentence being set aside on appeal, be presumed to take effect from the date on which he was committed to prison under the first or original sentence.

(2) Where separate sentences have been passed in separate trials, the sentences being consecutive, under section 397 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, the operation of the second sentence will, in the event of first sentence being set aside on appeal, commence from the date of conviction in the second sentence.

426. Date from which a sentence finally passed shall count.

When an appellate Court modifies a sentence passed by a lower Court without change of section, or when an appellate Court passes a new sentence by changing the section or otherwise, the sentence finally passed shall count, unless otherwise specially directed, from the date of imprisonment under original sentence.

427. Calculation of date of release when a fine is partially paid.

If a prisoner is sentenced to imprisonment of which the whole or part is in default of the payment of any fine, and if the fine or a portion of it is not immediately paid, the date of release shall be fixed on such dates as shall correspond to payment as well as non-payment of the fine. When any portion of the fine is subsequently paid, the date of the release shall be altered accordingly.

Example.- If a prisoner is sentenced on the 1st January to six months imprisonment and to pay a fine of Rs.300, or in default of payment to be imprisoned for a further period of six months, then supposing that the prisoner, immediately on conviction pays Rs.100, the date of release shall be first fixed at 31st October, that is, six months plus four months (being the term proportionate to the amount of the fine unpaid), and entries shall be made on the warrant as the 30th June and 31st October; if he afterwards pays another Rs.100 the later date shall be changed to 31st August, on his paying the whole, the fact shall be noted opposite the entry on the 30th June.

428. Calculation of remission on payment of fine.

If a prisoner is sentenced to fine and in default to imprisonment for a period and pays a portion of his fine, the remission for the payment shall be calculated in days, fractions of less than half a day shall not be counted. Half or over shall count as one day.

Example.- A prisoner is sentenced on 15th July to six months' imprisonment and to pay a fine of Rs.300 or in default six months further imprisonment. He pays Rs.63. The calculation shall be made as follows:-

Number of days of imprisonment in lieu of fine

$$\frac{\text{X Amount Paid}}{\text{Amount of fine}} = \text{Number of days to be remitted}$$
$$\frac{\text{Rs. 180 x 63}}{300} = 37\frac{4}{5} \text{ days i.e.} = 38 \text{ days}$$

Note.- Month shall be reckoned consisting of thirty days for the purpose of calculating the number of days to be deducted in lieu of the amount of fine realized.

429. Disposal of notice intimating payment of fine.

If a fine is paid in part or whole after a prisoner is admitted in prison, the court receiving it will unless it has already received back the prisoner's warrant, with an endorsement showing that he has been released, notify the fact to the officer in charge. This notification shall be attached with the warrant and returned with it after the sentence has been carried out.

430. Notice intimating payment of fine to be forwarded to the prison where the prisoner is transferred.

When a prisoner whose sentence includes imprisonment in default of payment of fine is transferred to some other prison, the officer in charge of transferring prison is responsible for seeing that notifications of payment of fine received by him, are promptly forwarded to the prison in which the prisoner is confined. Such notices shall always be sent under a registered courier.

(1) Fine can be tendered at the prison with the written permission of officer in charge. The Deputy Superintendent will receive the fine or a portion thereof, issue a receipt to the person who paid it and shall on the first opportunity produce the warrant with an entry of the fact that such payment has been made, and credit given in the sentence, for the signature of the officer in charge.

(2) The Officer Incharge shall ensure that the fines received are remitted into the Government treasury without delay.

(3) All fines tendered at prison shall be received irrespective of the fact whether the prisoner is due for release or not provided he is confined in that prison.

432. Action if no sentence has been awarded in lieu of fine.

If a prisoner sentenced to a fine in addition to a substantive sentence and the order of the Court does not mention any imprisonment in lieu of fine, the prisoner will be released on the expiry of his substantive sentence and the court concerned informed of the fact.

433. Imprisonment in lieu of fine to run after the expiry of all the substantive sentences.

If a prisoner sentenced to imprisonment in default of payment of fine is, either at the same time or subsequently, sentenced to a term of imprisonment without the option of fine, the imprisonment in default of payment of fine shall be kept in abeyance till the expiry of all the substantive sentence of imprisonment.

Example.- A prisoner is sentenced on the 9th June, 2005, to two years rigorous imprisonment and a fine of Rs.100 or in default six months further rigorous imprisonment. On the 9th of July of the same year he is sentenced on another charge to rigorous imprisonment for eighteen months and on the 15th of October, 2005, he is again sentenced on a third charge to rigorous imprisonment for two years. The sentence of six months imprisonment in default of payment of fine shall begin from the 9th December, 2010, (the date on which all the substantive sentences expire being the 8th December).

Note.- This covers the case of a prisoner whose first sentence of imprisonment is in default of payment of fine. Any substantive sentence of imprisonment subsequently passed shall count from the date of the first sentence, and the imprisonment in lieu of fine shall be taken effect last, although a portion of it may have been already served when the substantive sentence was awarded.

434. Imprisonment under sections 106 or 118 Cr.P.C. in addition to substantive sentence:

(1) If any person, in respect of whom an order requiring security is made under section 106 or section 118, is, at the time such order is made, sentenced to or undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, the period for which such security is required shall commence on the expiry of such sentence.

(2) In other cases, such period shall commence on the date of such order unless the court, for sufficient reason, fixes a later date.

Note.— An order under section 123 of the Criminal Procedure Code directing that a person who has failed to give security shall be detained in prison is not a “sentence of imprisonment” for the purposes of section 397 of the Criminal Procedure Code. It is merely an order for detention in prison, and if it is passed under clause (2) of section 123, the court proceeding must be laid before the Court, which may thereafter pass such order on the case as he thinks fit, but if the Court confirms, or varies the order, and does not set it aside, the period for which detention is ordered must date from the time when the first court passed its order. Imprisonment for failure to give security for keeping the peace shall be simple.

435. Sentence awarded to an escaped convict how to take effect.

When an additional sentence of imprisonment is passed on an escaped convict who has been recaptured, such sentence shall take effect according to the following:-

If the new sentence is severer in its kind than the sentence which such convict was undergoing when he escaped, the new sentence shall take effect immediately, and the expired portion of original sentence, shall be served subsequently. When the new sentence is not more severe, it shall take effect after he has served the unexpired portion of his original sentence

Note.- A sentence of life imprisonment is severer than one of imprisonment; a sentence of rigorous imprisonment is severer than one of simple imprisonment.
